

LEADING WITH PRESENCE

Professional Development

Whether you're looking to sharpen your professional skills or reconnect with how you show up as a leader, this workshop offers a highly experiential approach to leadership development. Through improvisation, embodied learning, and collaborative play, participants build clarity, confidence, and presence — while developing practical tools to navigate change with ease, strengthen emotional intelligence, communicate more effectively, and reconnect to creativity and joy as drivers of leadership impact.

New York City | January 28, 2026
Charlotte | February 17, 2026

6 HOURS OF TRAINING

Expert Facilitator

Briana Gibson Reeves is a performer and educator with over a decade of experience leading experiential, professional development. Her work blends improvisation, embodied learning, and inclusive facilitation to support leadership development.

Interactive Sessions

Actors train every day in presence, adaptability, listening, and trust — the same skills required of effective leaders. This workshop brings those tools off the stage and into real-world leadership practice.

“You don’t need improv experience.
You just need a willingness to play.”

